INTRODUCTION

In Australia, there is a growing trend towards enabling and supporting both the aged and people with disabilities to live in their own homes, with as much autonomy as possible. Even when they stay in community care centres, they often require personalised attention as each person’s needs are unique. Diet plans, physical needs and medical attention required will differ from patient to patient. Individual support workers are trained to take care of the needs of such patients on a one-on-one basis, and support their independence and well being.

IHNA develops and delivers comprehensive training courses for those who wish to practice in Australia, with course content that is unique due to its systematic and structured approach to theory and clinical skills. Our course material is regularly reviewed and updated to ensure current relevance in the Australian medical landscape.

Our comprehensive learning environment is student-centric, enabling each student to get personalised attention and obtain all the skills and competencies required to become an expert healthcare professional. An education at IHNA is quality-driven due to our state-of-the-art infrastructure and qualified educators.

Each of our courses is delivered by experienced educators who are practising in Australia and are well versed in the healthcare environment in this country.

IHNA’s value-added all round education brings out the best in each of our students. To date, over 2000 students have completed courses at IHNA with highly successful results, and have gone on to achieve exceptional job outcomes in leading facilities.
WHY STUDY AT IHNA?

• IHNA’s excellence in delivering training for international students has been rewarded with the prestigious Victorian International Education Provider Award 2016. We are also shortlisted as finalists for the 2016 Victorian Small Training Provider of the Year Award.

• Our courses and learning materials are work-focused and designed to meet Australian VET standards in healthcare.

• We offer ample flexibility, you can attend classroom courses or study online

• Our trainers are experienced educators who have work experience in Australia

• Successful candidates will be job-ready and will have the knowledge and skills to practice with confidence and competence

• Students are supported and guided, every step of the way

• Our courses are nationally recognised

• Students get valuable hands-on industry experience during their work placement, which is organised by IHNA
This qualification is designed for workers in the community or residential setting who provide individualised support to the aged, people with disabilities or others. They must use discretion and judgement, and take responsibility for their own outputs. They are taught factual, technical and procedural knowledge of the concepts and practices required.

This qualification provides the skills and knowledge for an individual to work in residential facilities and disability support centres under direct or regular supervision within organisation guidelines and service plans.

The CHC33015 Certificate III in Individual Support (Ageing, Disability) replaces the CHC30212 Certificate III in Aged Care and the CHC30408 Certificate III in Disability.

Workers with this Qualification:

- Carry out activities to maintain personal care or other activities of daily living for people in an aged care or disability support setting;
- Carry out activities in accordance with individualised plans; and
- Report directly to a supervisor and are not responsible for other workers.
